Welcome to the Bridgemaker Brand Glow-Up

Meet our new brand — including our redefined Purpose,
Mission and Themes

Why Are We Rebranding?

We all grow and change over time — so does the Bridgemaker DNA.

As we grew over the years, our brand purpose, mission and themes have changed and needed to be redefined. Rebranding is all about innovating our brand and to adjust it to who we are now. It helps us to create awareness and increase leverage in our industry. However, rebranding involves more than just creating a new logo and calling it a day.

OK, BUT WHAT DOES THAT MEAN EXACTLY?

Our Brand Needs To Reflect Who We Are

Rebranding is not a purely cosmetic measure. It's a visual and linguistic expression of evolution, cultural change and the transformation of our DNA. It is a great way to tell the world our story and enables us to position ourselves in the market, to make us stand out from the crowd.

THIS IS WHO WE ARE

We are calm and wise, yet fierce and brave. We are passionate, but fun never comes too short.

We are matter-of-fact, but know how to express our emotions to connect.

We build bridges

THE BRIDGEMAKER BRAND IN A NUTSHELL

Bridgemaker always moves between two worlds. We live in and navigate through a permanent state of duality. We are right in the middle of it, finding our balance. Our brand needs to reflect this.

OUT WITH THE OLD

In With the New

Redefining the Bridgemaker DNA and brand strategy is a topic that has been with us for quite some while. We realized our purpose and mission do not serve us anymore. We have outgrown them. What is good and proven remains. What had to be changed is renewed now.

In a brand workshop, we started our journey by figuring out who Bridgemaker is as a brand and where we position ourselves. In two different workstreams and with input of the Leadership team, we redefined our purpose and mission and invented our themes.

TO CUT A LONG STORY SHORT

Imagine the Simplest, yet Most Sympathetic Bridge

A direct link between two sides — our new logo is exactly this.

A simple sign that connects. Its great significance is already evident in the German name of the word mark: “Bindestrich”. It connects two words or sentence parts that belong together.

The “Bindestrich” is just like us. Straight to the point, uncomplicated, the most direct way — a bridge between corporate and startup.

THE POWER OF COLORS

Our Boldness Is Mirrored by Our Colors

Our new colors reflect our balance of duality. The old colors were muted and too passive for who we are now. Bridgemaker's main colors remain black and white. But next to black and white, our brand personality is made even more vibrant with additional fresh and active colors.

Black reflects our straightforwardness, while white underlines our transparency and clarity. Deep Lilac, as rich as our knowledge. Gradients show our dynamics, how everything is in flow. Brave Red to emphasize our courage to face any challenge and Fun Orange, because we always have fun in what we do.

OUTRO

Proud To Be a Bridgie

Everyone of us should feel our purpose, mission and themes. Our themes support us to live up to our purpose. They are the foundation on which we build our daily business.

There is only one set of themes for all of us, whether it's leadership, managers or employees. They are a big step towards one identity and one culture. That's why we all need to internalize them as one team.
